Paint/finishing and finishing instructions

All joinery delivered clear (no primer/stain) must be sealed on the outside of joinery prior to installation. Pre-finished joinery would be coated in 2 coats of primer/undercoat and 1 coat of 70% sheen top coat (Technos Paints) final decorating by installer.

All joinery (Pre-finished or not) must have final decorating coat applied maximum 4 weeks after installation.

All pins/nails must be punched below surface and screw holes must be filled and re-painted ASAP.

All beading must be sealed to the frame and to the glass with one continuous seal of glazing putty (compatible with Bitumen) or something similar. (Mastic will not form a seal with our paint)

Any horns removed need to be treated with wood preservative and re-painted prior to fitting.

Any exposed timber must be sealed ASAP.

All mitres must be sealed during final decoration.

Glass

All glass will be sent loose (to be fitted by others on site)

All glass is to be checked prior to installation for imperfections.

All glass is to be packed up off the rebate using a solid non porous material.

All glass is to be sealed against the frame rebate with one continuous seal of glazing putty (compatible with bitumen) or something similar. (Mastic will not form a seal).

Glass is not to be cleaned with anything abrasive.

All beads must be over painted over seal and on to glass to form seal during final decorating.

Guarantee

There is a five year manufacturer's guarantee on all units (supplied by glass manufacturer).

Any breakdown of units in this period shall be replaced free of charge.

A Dee Kay Joinery limited will not be liable for third party involvement of any aspect of the window fitting including the glass fitting. We would not be liable for any re fitting costs of glass or redecorating during and after the guarantee period. Any units that breakdown due to failure to follow guidelines stated, this will void the guarantee and any costs incurred would be the sole responsibility of the original installer, not A Dee Kay Joinery limited.
